INTRODUCTION

This report explains the planning, execution, and performance of a digital marketing campaign conducted to promote a product called Mini Massager. The campaign was designed to increase brand awareness, attract potential customers, and generate messaging conversations through social media platforms.

Instead of working on a fictional app, this campaign was applied to a real product to gain practical experience. Facebook Ads was used as the primary marketing tool due to its wide audience reach and advanced targeting options.

The campaign followed a structured approach including market research, content creation, campaign execution, and performance analysis.

Market Research

Before starting the campaign, basic market research was conducted to understand the target audience and competitors.

Target Audience Analysis

The campaign targeted individuals who are likely to experience body pain, stress, or fatigue due to daily routines. The selected audience included:

- People aged between 22-50 years
- Both males and females
- Individuals interested in fitness, health, and self-care
- Social media users who frequently shop online

This audience was selected because they are more likely to purchase a compact and affordable relaxation product like a mini massager.

Competitor Research

Competitors selling similar products were analyzed on social media platforms. It was observed that most competitors:

- Use visually appealing product images
- Focus on pain relief and relaxation benefits

Offer discounts and limited-time deals

- Use short and clear ad copy

This analysis helped in creating a better strategy by focusing on simple messaging and attractive visuals.

Marketing Channels

The campaign used multiple digital platforms for promotion:

- Facebook Ads Main platform for running paid advertisements
- Instagram Used for content visibility and engagement
- WhatsApp Used for direct communication with customers

Facebook Ads was the primary source for generating leads and messaging conversations.

Campaign Goals and KPIs

Campaign Goals

The main goals of this campaign were:

- To increase awareness of the Mini Massager product
- To generate customer inquiries through messages
- To improve engagement with potential buyers

Key Performance Indicators (KPIs)

To measure the success of the campaign, the following KPIs were used:

- Reach (number of people who saw the ad)
- Impressions (total views of the ad)
- Messaging conversations
- Cost per result (cost per message)

These KPIs helped in evaluating the effectiveness of the campaign.

Content Strategy

A content strategy was created to support the ad campaign and attract user attention. The content focused on simple, clear, and engaging messaging.

Types of Content Created

- General product introduction post
- Limited-time offer post
- Neck pain / problem-based post
- Benefits-based post (already available)
- Self-care reminder post

All designs were created using Canva and included short text along with a clear call-to-action such as Order Now or Buy Now

Observations

Based on the campaign performance, the following observations were made:

- The campaign was successful in attracting user attention
- Users showed interest by initiating conversations
- Cost per message remained low and efficient
- Simple and clear creatives performed better than complex designs

Optimization and Improvements

Although the campaign performed well, there are areas for improvement:

- Testing different ad creatives (A/B testing)
- Improving audience targeting
- Using more engaging visuals
- Increasing budget for scaling

These improvements can help achieve better results in future campaigns.

Conclusion

In conclusion, the digital marketing campaign for the Mini Massager was successful in achieving its objectives. It effectively increased product awareness and generated a significant number of customer inquiries.

The campaign provided valuable practical experience in digital marketing, including ad creation, audience targeting, and performance analysis. With further optimization, the campaign can deliver even better results in the future.
